Letters from Political Prisoner Brendon O'Connell

Unit 1, 'Management Unit',

12 October 2011

Dear Fredrick

I rang yesterday but your phone went straight to message bank so I presume you are still in Iran. Hopefully you will be able to drop by and visit me in Casurina Maximum Security facility, this late October I believe. That's if the mass infestation of cockroaches doesn't get me first here in Unit 1.

I want to focus this letter around the current vilification of Iran in the Western/Jewish press. In particular, the events surrounding two Americans – who I believe are Jewish – caught on the Iraqi/Iran border AND the Iranian actress who is reported – extensively – to have been jailed for one year and may be “flogged” for not wearing a ‘hijab’ in a film.

The two Americans were walking on the most dangerous border in the world; they complain they are simply innocent little “hikers” out for a stroll; they complain they were not receiving their mail so they went on a hunger strike; they complain they could hear “screams”, and Iranians were being mean and nasty.

Well, I'm supposedly in a first world democracy with a first rate legal system and policing agencies and I was jailed for three years for “upsetting” a Jew and the general Jewish community. I was hounded and harassed by our “Secret Police” the State Security Investigation Group; I complained of death threats and stalking and harassment and I was fobbed off; I was vilified in the ‘State controlled’ Western Australian and Australian media; I was given a “kangaroo court” alleged “trial” that was an utter joke; I was subsequently vilified as “mentally ill” by segments of the media who made no effort to report the incredible behaviour of Judge Whisbey; I was bashed in jail by private security guards; thrown in bare concrete “punishment cells” where screams are common; I was forcibly strip-searched by six males ON CAMERA; and I was forced into humiliating strip searches continuously just to have people visit; my cell was torn apart and I was strip-searched for no reason; friends in the jail were strip-searched and had their cells turned upside down, especially Mr Ali Ammoun, a Lebanese Muslim – all of this went on-and-on – private papers taken, news articles on Serco taken; diaries confiscated, etc. All this in Iran? Syria? Soviet Union? Egypt? NO, WESTERN AUSTRALIA!

Then the woman in Iran and people crying about her right to "Freedom of Expression". Well – HELLO!!! How stupidly brainwashed is the West? I have met DOZENS in jail who have been abused by our "1st World democracy" and its associated legal trappings. I have seen people stabbed and bashed in jail in the last nine months, RAMPANT drug abuse, and the prisons had out drugs like Methadone, which they know people take just to take away their depression in jail.

WHERE IS MY "FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION"? You can certainly "freely express" yourself with high powered firearms in this State and put holes in local Muslim Mosques but don't question Jewish racial and religious supremacism.

Are we THAT blind? And now the media pushes the ridiculous line that the President of Iran was in on a plan to blow up the Saudi and Israeli Embassies in the US?

This indicates the sheer desperation of the Israeli State and Jewish Zionist owners of the US to take out Iran as per "securing the Realm"; "The project For The New American Century", and "The Pentagon's New Map?", which all subtly and explicitly call for the "reshaping" of the Middle East to open them up to Western business interests, to exploit their resources and human labour, plus make the region safe for the criminal racist apartheid state of Israel.

This appears to be their last dying chance to pull this off. Christmas 2011 will be very interesting if Jewish Zionist criminals stick to their true form and wait for the "Christian West" to begin the drunken orgy still called "Christmas" when people will be busy shopping and fornicating with their secretary at the local office party to worry about Israel lobbing nukes at Iran and killing a few million people. Of course, they had to – to stop "terrorism".

People really have to watch "Wag the Dog" with Robert De Nero and Dustin Hoffman in it. They stage a "fake war" to distract the American public. Throughout the movie characters complain – "But the American public won't buy it", to which the De Niro character co-ordinating the fakery continuously rebuts throughout the movie: "Of course they'll buy it. It's on the TV." Very funny movie, get it.

Spoke with Mark Glenn this AM. Very good to contact him. Despite having only $1. On my phone account I was able to talk with him for 10 minutes. We will be doing an interview or two, which they clearly want me to do. They put his number on literally an hour after legal aid refused to fund the leave-to-appeal and bail. I suspect so I will do an all-out public interview "spilling the beans" on the WA legal system's gross abuse of process, and they will charge me with contempt of court and extend my stay in jail even longer OR refuse a bail application at a later date stating that I am "re-offending" even while incarcerated. However, it could just be that the many supporters I have in the prison system who read my mail and know everything that's going on are assisting. You never know. However, I suspect the former is more correct.

With that in mind I will be careful what I say and simply tell people there have been long delays in the appeal process; that the head of the Law Society, Hylton Quail, has interfered and impeded the course of justice by warning off local lawyers from assisting Dr Walsh; that Legal Aid indicated it had no problem organising leave to appeal and bail, then suddenly reneged when Dr Walsh left for France for three weeks after stringing me along for three months; that for the first time in Australian legal history as court of appeal has reversed the usual process of hearing the appeal against sentencing first on 13 December 2011. We aim to get as many people along as possible minus the "ringers" who will be goose-stepping no doubt and swearing to the media they are my closest supporters.

Anyway, Fredrick, hope all is well. I will photocopy this letter, which might take a few days to come back before I send it. You should contact Mark Glenn and tell him about your trip.

Brendon.

PS: I am in Unit 1 "Management Unit" at maximum security Casuarinas Prison. Imagine, exercising your "basic rights" and you become a "management" problem.

Dear Fredrick

Some good quotes relevant to the whole "Holocaust" debate - this is Aaron Wildavsky on the 'Analysis as Craft' quoted in Paul O'Brien's The Peoples' Case:

"Because the task of analysis ... is to try and alleviate practical problems, the analytic enterprise, Martin Landau rightly argues, 'cannot recognise the limits of any field ... by its nature it must follow problems wherever they go. It cannot ignore anything that may be relevant to a solution'. ... Trust in social interaction designed to detect and correct error reinforces reliance on individual integrity ... The analytic enterprise depends on social trust, on common recognition that the analytic activity is being carried out to secure more desirable outcomes ... with no 'facts that matter' there is no evidence, no hope for contradiction and error identification. Learning through error ceases. Theory, which acts as its own cause by dismissing hypotheses out of hand is called dogma. History, acting as its own justification is called tradition."

"These tendencies support each other. The virtues of dogma – limiting the scope of the debate, starting with initial presumptions – are the virtues of tradition. Similarly, the vices of dogma are the vices of tradition. These include shifting the burden of proof to the challenger and inhibiting learning by preventing the rectification of errors. When tradition rules, recognition of error becomes anomalous, and policy acts to perpetuate itself. The tensions ... have their moral sides. Relating resources to objectives so that the promise of public policy can be kept is the mark of the responsible analyst. It is irresponsible to put resources to inferior uses, depriving others of their opportunities ... To be held responsible as if one could control results, depends on processing relevant resources, for otherwise accountability is a sham. Social interaction is efficacious only when autonomous individuals establish reciprocal relationships. Individual moral development requires a balance between autonomy and reciprocity, citizen and community, which at the public level, is the task of policy analysis." – p. 132-133.

We, of course, Fredrick, see the "Holocaust" witch hunts "writ large" in these quotes. History has become Religious Dogma., which is fine if you admit what you believe lies in the supernatural sphere of "religion" and "faith" ... but never "history".

Jews have the same problem with regards their precious "Tanakh" or Old Testament. Is it "religion" or is it "history"? Bread falling from heaven; large bodies of water parted; "prophets" hearing voices in their head telling them to slaughter men, women and children; fiery chariots taking "head men" up to heaven; and on and on. Is it "faith" or "history"? professor Shlomo Sand asks the question in his book, The Invention Of The Jewish People – How can so many dogmatic assumptions out of a religious book – posing as a history book – can be taken as "public policy" in the modern world which includes being willing to go to war with Iran and 40 million Arabs because of words written by people who talked to God long ago and promise you all the lands from the East bank of the Nile to the West bank of the Euphrates?

It seems like the Jewish liberty of having a bet each way never ceases. Whether "religion/race" or "religious book/history book" or whatever, is useful at the time, they will change the goal posts, rules, legislation as quickly and as easily as they change underwear. 'It's true in my head' was never more apt and we saw that when Oprah interviewed the 'Holocaust Survivor' who made up the story of meeting his 'true love' in the camps. He came back with not an apology but 'it was true in my head'.

Now, Fredrick, the problem is NOT with the Jewish habit of "lying" because for a Jew there is no such thing. We have failed to grasp the ground from which the Jew is coming. This can be fixed by simple education. For a Jew there is no distinction between what is "potential" and what is "actual". In modern mental health terms this is known as 'delusion' – an inability to distinguish the "imagined" from the "real", where "feelings/intuition" are not balanced by "sensation/thinking", the "four functions", as espoused by the Swiss psychoanalyst Carl Gustav Jung and well accepted in Western intellectual circles. Along for the ride in this diagnosis is pathological narcissism whereby one cannot imagine other humans as separate, autonomous individuals with needs and imaginings of their own – separate from the needs/aspirations of the Jew.

Narcissism in infants is quite normal, such as: 'Where's my milk/tit?'; 'my nappy is soiled!'; 'I am tired!', which is expressed in "wailing/thrashing of limbs/whinging" and "whimpering" because the infant is helpless and coming to terms with being incarnate⁴ into the time-space world and is no longer omniscient. This is heartbreaking for the infant. To "feel" like God, but not only find you can't walk on water and suspend the laws of nature; you can't even boil a bottle of milk on the stove. The result is tantrums, screaming and rocking of the body back and forth. ALL of this is cured over time by the infant being reassured by Mother that she is there, that she will attend to his needs until he is able to do so himself, and over time the trauma of the loss of omniscience/innocence is eased and the infant slowly learns that he is not God and feels empathy for the "other", and not just as a useful "utilitarian" extension of himself to gratify his own needs, but as a Sovereign Entity with rights to pursue their own hopes and dreams free from interference.

Human beings "stuck" in pathological narcissism throw temper tantrums, feel victimized, feel the world is against them, and will either succumb to suicide or seek to manipulate others through manipulation of emotions and good will on the part of the "other". We see this everywhere – it's called "street crime", the opportunistic manipulation of a situation to gratify ones needs at the expense of another. Then there is – "organized crime narcissism" where a large group utilizes sociopathic based behaviours to manipulate others to do their will and gratify individuals and group needs at the expense of the "other".

Jews have taken common human failing and made it an art form – then, with the emotional stage and of a two-year-old who's just learned to walk; drugged daddy's coffee with drugs, alcohol and porn and grabbed the keys to the shotgun cabinet and proclaimed himself head of the household. What will mother say? We could say the "Cow Boy" attitude of this "narcissistic two-year-old is apt as we observe the State of Isra-hell. Six guns at the ready, shooting at anything that moves. "Cow" and "boy" being apt. Why not "Bull Man"? Cows are feminine and give milk to little boys, so perhaps it's apt and we can go all Freudian with the "six shooter" symbolism. Why can't these permanently emotionally retarded "cow boys" be more like the "Bull Man" President Ahmadinejad who states publicly ... 'This is the age of peace and dialogue, not bullets and bombs'. Like a child who lost at cricket we find Isra-hell and her Zionist lackeys the world-over screaming that President Ahmadinejad has a bomb! He has a gun! He wants to blow up America! And other tall tales which follow the act of dummy-spitting when they can't get their way and Iran gets in the way of their warm bottle of milk. I'm sick of tattle tales where the truth is "in their heads".

Whether it's "Holocaust" dogma or "Climate Change" dogma or a Prime Minister who didn't "lie" before the election on NO carbon tax - she merely "broke a promise". It was "true in her head" at the time. Now, her "psychological construct" has changed. Reminds me of Professor Andrew Markus at my trial - 'race and ethnicity are a psychological construct'. It doesn't really exist, only in your head. If I "sincerely" believe it, it is so. If I "sincerely" believe I met my love in the camps, it was so. Even if it was only true in my head. And when the "survivor" stories all turn out to be "in their heads" will there be an apology to you, Faurisson, Zündel, Rudolf, Leuchter, Irving, and the entire German nation? Of course not. No hard feelings. "It was all true in our heads." All the time.

Like the bureaucrats of our day, there is no "truth", no "law", just the supremacy of a Prime Minister's Cabinet and legislature that will bequeath "truth" to the masses in endless rules that may change at any time. What you thought was "morally right" today, might be "morally wrong" tomorrow and, if you are really unlucky, they might apply the "new truth" - legislation - retrospectively and lock you up - or shoot you.

So, this is what it has come to? The "Old Dear" is dropping by apparently this month to find out why the tenants are running amok in her rental property but the "lease" was re-written in 1986 by the Rhose (Rogue) Scholar Bob Hawke and his true believers. She might need a hand to set things straight and re-write the lease to note she flogged the land to build the house AND "the people" are SUPREME in the House, not a small band of narcissistic utopian scientific rationalist Rabbis who should be relegated to a small outhouse by the gnome in the back garden, not the master bedroom.

Chief among the modern Pharisees of our day who "strain at grats" is/was Paul Keating and his infatuation with a "beautiful set of numbers" and the "J curve", which may be more apt than we can possibly believe. These Pharisees and Grand Rabbis of the dialectical school of Marx and Talmud can - as you have noted - see things only in terms "win/lose" or "us/them" and the utopia will be "a beautiful set of numbers" in their utilitarian "J Curve" world where the 'curve' is pointed most pointedly in favour of the "J", and their mercurial intellectual mindset geared the only way a scientific rationalist mind can go - the lowest common denominator.

As their feeling side is so narcissistically retarded and repressed its highest form of unconscious expression is tantrum, violence, revenge, "slay them all and spare them not; kill all - man, woman, infant and suckling, ass and sheep"; sounds like a book I read once. The highest expression of the "feeling side" is 'LOVE'. This is like a book I've read also. Now you see why they HATE Jesus. He was God balancing the scientific rationalist equation to produce the Hegelian dialectic of win/win. He also reminded them of a state of being they were incapable of attaining because it is IMPOSSIBLE for human beings to give up power once they have it. Like Neanderthal man, it was time to go. Someone turn off the music and switch the lights on, the party's over.

Those of us with developed "frontal lobes" who suffer less from sociopathic narcissism will leave the cities to the more mercurial scientific rationalist mindset and seek comfort in each other's familial love in isolated places. We will till the soil, tend our garden and "withdraw consent" from Rabbi Yousef's wage slavery and doomed high-rise hell. Like the real Rabbi Yousef, who stated recently that the 'goy' were on earth only "to serve the J curve", we will leave them to get their own lattes in their intellectual coffee house revolutionary palaces and like the honest citizen soldiers of Rome, turn the swords to plough shears and leave Shlomo to the barbarians. To fight the Jews is madness - you'll be infected with his own madness. Withdraw consent, don't buy his drugs, his porn, don't use his money, and don't rely on his good will - seek out your own "principality". You may wonder for a while but you'll find home. "Go sovereign"!

So, once we've stopped blaming the Jews for our own infatuation with the J Curve, we can cure our own narcissism and stop expecting anything from a pig but a grunt. As long as we look to university graduates to lead us to a "bright shining destiny", we will get lots of "J Curves" and "beautiful sets of numbers" that have no link with "reality". It may be true in Julia Gillard's head but it may not be true tomorrow, which means she may not be responsible mother who can warm your infant formula on the stove to take away the anxiety. Better to slowly extricate yourself from the crib, grow the fuck up, free your mind and your arse will most certainly follow. Start with considering politicians with what they are - liars, bent on re-election. Pharisees, all clean and fair without but within full of dead men's bones and all corruption. Now you know they can't help you, you can help yourself! You can vote for the Pharisees or you can vote for the Sadducees but the only difference is one believes a soufflé can rise twice and the other doesn't - this is a brilliant "sub rosa" quip on the famous Keating, Labor, remark that Peacock, Liberal, was a "soufflé" that could not regain the leadership of the Liberal party a "second time" by rising twice. My literary brilliance knows no bounds. The Pharisees and the Sadducees were the Liberal/Labor Party of the day in Christ's time, the Sadducees believed in the raising of the dead, the Pharisees did not...

I'm going out into the desert and becoming a priest/king of my own. I'll leave "voting" to others. But you know these ramblings, Fredrick. Brendon.

Dear Mr Abbott

Please Tony, don't go along with the USA and do oppose Australia's Zionist Jews - history is against you!

This time you have made an error of judgment - try to water it down and realize the machinations of the Anglo-American-Zionist war machine is not serving Australia's best interests. There will be more legal persecution for those who oppose it but for free expression - NATURAL JUSTICE - for this ideal alone it is well worth the effort opposing this Zionist Jewish monster that you are courting.

You will not restore HOPE by going along with this monstrosity because Australia still isn't - not yet - on the Kaminski stupid list!

Cheers, Fredrick Toben - Adelaide

IT seemed scripted – a prominent businessman unleashes on the ineffectiveness of the government, following which, the alternative prime minister stands up to present a case that things would be different with him at the helm.

It wasn't scripted, but this is what happened at Friday's Australia-Israel Chamber of Commerce lunch in Melbourne addressed by Opposition Leader Tony Abbott.

Dear CPT May:

It has been a longstanding tradition that every time you have sent me an email notification regarding your latest article, I have posted it to the author archive at <http://tinyurl.com/5f93lb> that I have maintained for you at America First Books. I have done this since 2007, and have always given you encouraging remarks for fighting the good

In introducing Abbott, retailer Solomon Lew told guests he didn't want to appear "politically partisan" because he didn't want to give shoppers an excuse not to buy his brands.

But, he then proceeded to slam many of the Gillard Government's economic policies, saying they had brought down consumer confidence.

"This is a time as a nation when we should be flying and investing in a productive future," Lew said. He criticised the national broadband network as "so deeply flawed it contains elements of sovereign risk" and accused the Government of engaging in protectionism on behalf of international retailers by allowing goods bought online to be imported GST-free. The only certainty for Australian businesses in the current environment was "that the cost of doing business will increase".

Abbott responded with a speech that sought to position his party's economic credentials, and focused on productivity. "If economic growth is high enough through strong productivity growth, it's possible to deliver simultaneously higher spending, lower taxes, a bigger surplus and higher wages without triggering inflation," he said.

He outlined several Coalition strategies to increase productivity including providing incentives to move young people, older people and people with disabilities into work, extending welfare quarantining arrangements around Australia, reforming the paid parental leave scheme, reducing regulations for Australian businesses and investing in big infrastructure projects only after a cost-benefit analysis.

"Our objective is to restore hope, reward and opportunity for all," he said.

Abbott also reaffirmed the Coalition's opposition to Palestinian statehood at a UN declaration. "It is the Coalition's firm view that Australia should support the United States in voting against any application to admit Palestine to the United Nations," he said.

fight to thwart false flag attacks and other threats to America's legitimate national interests while struggling as a quadriplegic. However, there is a relatively new dimension to your alerts that I need to address publicly.

Your 17 June 2011 alert titled: Introduction: 2011 Summer FalseFlag Forecast

http://www.veteranstoday.com/2011/06/17/introduction-2011-summer-false-flag-forecast/?utm_source=rss&utm_medium=rss&utm_campaign=introduction-2011-summer-false-flag-forecast began with: "By Abu Salem sofyan, Islamic Intelligence, and Captain Eric H. May, Iconoclast Intelligence

FRIDAY, 6/17/11 – We two editors could not be more different at first glance, but appearances can be deceiving. A Muslim Arab European and a Christian Anglo American, we began with mutual suspicion. Since then we have corresponded, found common ground and become both coauthors and friends. Surely this is an example of what will make a better world.

In the next month we shall examine the false flag top targets and timetables for six countries that we consider most endangered... ."

This was the first time I became aware of Abu Salem Sofyan and "Islamic Intelligence." In fact, I have known nothing about him myself until I very recently discovered and listened to his 24 June 2011 interview with Kevin Barrett listed at: <http://truthjihadradio.blogspot.com/2011/06/victor-thorn-abu-salem-sofyan-on-tj.html>

In your 23 September 2011 article: BREAKING: Texas City Terror Scare at:

<http://www.veteranstoday.com/2011/09/23/breaking-texas-city-terror-scare/>

you described how you intend for your relationship to go much deeper than coauthorship on a few articles:

'In the event that I become incapacitated, incarcerated or incommunicado, my friend Abu Salem will continue my work. His courage, commitment and candor make him uniquely qualified.'

To date I have not had a discussion with you regarding your motives for wanting to get in deep with a leader of "Islamic Intelligence," apart from the fact that you are in the late stage of ALS, can only operate a computer with eye movements, and can certainly use help from any competent individual willing to provide assistance.

One possible interpretation of your involvement with Abu Salem Sofyan and "Islamic Intelligence" is that he just happens to be a savvy person knowledgeable about false flag dirty tricks willing to step forward and provide sorely needed assistance when you need it most to help defend the greater part of humanity from Zionist false flag terror. In other words, it is largely incidental that he runs "Islamic Intelligence." Under this interpretation, you would presumably be just as ready to accept help from a savvy individual who claims to be with "Protestant Intelligence," "Catholic Intelligence," "Buddhist Intelligence," or even "Shinto Intelligence" as someone like Abu Salem Sofyan with "Islamic Intelligence." Since you have worked with me, and I identify with northern European-style rationalism and "natural religion," perhaps we could all also be linked to some kind of hypothetical "Agnostic Intelligence" and "Natural Religion Intelligence."

On the other hand, if you intend something more closely connected with "Islamic Intelligence" on a social, cultural, political, and religious level, this can potentially open up a whole Pandora's box of issues for other individuals who have coauthored with you in the past, such as myself, Dr. Fetzer, LtCol Guy Razer, W. Leon Smith, and SFC Buswell. Politics can make strange bedfellows, and the enemy of ones enemy is not always ones long term best friend.

In Chapter 23 of my Mission of Conscience series at <http://tinyurl.com/opaydf> I describe how the government tried to frame a group of conservatives -- many of whom had never even met each other before -- with being part of some kind of fantastic global "Nazi Conspiracy."

...the book Trial on Trial: The Great Sedition Trial of 1944 by Lawrence Dennis describes how FDR deliberately dragged prominent American rightists through lengthy court proceedings on spurious charges in the early 1940's with the intent of impoverishing them, wasting their time, and intimidating would-be activists. Please see the Nov-Dec 1999 The Barnes Review online article "A Mockery of Justice: The Great Sedition Trial of 1944" by Michael Collins Piper and Ken Hoop about this sad affair.

Sometimes nothing is too low for the fevered imaginations of government operatives out to frame people, discredit cyber activists, or confuse nationalists and other conservatives. Since I have been working with you, and you are now in turn working closely with someone who runs "Islamic Intelligence," that may lead some to erroneously conclude that I am now part of some kind of fantastic global "Islamic Conspiracy."

This is completely preposterous and untrue, but like I said, sometimes there is nothing too low for certain government witch hunters. As you are aware, my personal views are not always aligned with those of Muslims. For starters, I have some pro-nationalist personal political leanings, and am not overjoyed with the way certain Muslims have been colonizing traditionally homogeneous Nordic/European countries such as Norway, Sweden, and Finland just like the way many Muslims resent it when white Christians try to invade and colonize what have traditionally been Muslim Arab lands. However, it is true enough that Zionists have not done either Arab Muslims or Scandinavians any favors lately. This is particularly true given that certain experts like former U.S. Navy Intelligence Officer Wayne Madsen believe that the recent bombing in Oslo and shooting at Utøya Island were very likely a Mossad false flag operation.

Last but not least, Wayne Madsen, Leuren Moret, and other experts also believe it highly likely that the Fukushima melt-downs were ultimately caused by the Stuxnet virus implanted by the Mossad. This has unleashed catastrophic levels of radiation that are now circling the northern hemisphere and polluting the Pacific. One can certainly understand why one might feel an urgent need to reach out across cultural barriers and unite as many people as possible -- to include Muslims -- against lunatic Zionist schemes to depopulate much of this planet. Please take a look at my archives for Fukushima, the 2011 American nuclear facility crises, Leuren Moret, and Dr. Chris Busby now listed on the home page at www.americafirstinstitute.com or <http://www.amfir.com/>.

I wanted to at least share some thoughts with you, and raise some questions for the record.

Best regards, Bill Fox

1. You do well, my Captain - your clarity of perception invigorates those who seek understanding of convoluted issues and creates fear in those who purposely deceive and lie.
 2. Amazingly the Anglo-American-Zionist war machine must follow its own self-determined logical path of self-destruction and we can only observe how this is happening as the all too familiar pattern of the recent past come to light, the sedition trials, is a prime example. The Iranian President has dared to show the world these machinations and is thus a prime candidate for termination - something I hope will never happen. However, since Professor Kaoru Yamaguchi has informed the US Congress, "the Monetary system itself is broken" http://www.huffingtonpost.com/stephenzarlenga/congressman-dennis-kucini_b_924004.html anything is up for grabs.
 3. Yesterday, after I sent my objection-email to Australia's leader of the federal opposition who had just come out in favour, and with agreement of Australia's Zionists, to follow US policy on Palestine, my Australian-based Internet server since 1996 blocked my sending emails on grounds it could be spam and that I had used up my daily quota, something that's never happened before. I had three Iranians send a message on my behalf to my server and this morning, 7.13am, it's working again but very, very slowly - more later.
 4. My Captain, I salute you and I hope, with a thrice Insha'Allah, you will continue to do your good work unhindered and for a long time to come.

The authors of the 9/11 dialectic have reached a bottomless pit with the following fabrication:

Al-Qaida calls on Ahmadinejad to end 9/11 conspiracy theories

Saeed Kamali Dehghan <http://www.guardian.co.uk/profile/saeedkamalidehghan>

guardian.co.uk, Wednesday 28 September 2011 16.24

Terrorist organisation's magazine reportedly says it is 'ridiculous' for Iran's president to blame the attacks on the US government

In its English language magazine Al-Qaida has reportedly called on Iran's president Mahmoud Ahmadinejad to stop citing conspiracy theories that the US was to blame behind 9/11.

Al-Qaida has sent a message to the Iranian president, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, asking him to stop spreading conspiracy theories about the 9/11 attacks.

Iranian media on Wednesday reported quotes from what appears to be an article published in the latest issue of the al-Qaida English language magazine, Inspire, which described Ahmadinejad's remarks over the 11 September attacks as "ridiculous".

In his UN general assembly speech last week, Ahmadinejad cast doubt over the official version of the 2001 attacks.

"The Iranian government has professed on the tongue of its president Ahmadinejad that it does not believe that al-Qaida was behind 9/11 but rather, the US government," the article said, according to Iranian media. "So we may ask the question: why would Iran ascribe to such a ridiculous belief that stands in the face of all logic and evidence?"

Ahmadinejad said in New York that the "mysterious September 11 incident" had been used as a pretext to attack Afghanistan and Iraq. He had also previously expressed scepticism at the US version of events.

"By using their imperialistic media network which is under the influence of colonialism, they threaten anyone who questions the Holocaust and the September 11 event with sanctions and military actions," said Ahmadinejad.

The al-Qaida article insisted it had been behind the attacks and criticised the Iranian president for discrediting the terrorist group.

"For them, al-Qaida was a competitor for the hearts and minds of the disenfranchised Muslims around the world," said the article published in the Inspire magazine. "Al-Qaida ... succeeded in what Iran couldn't. Therefore it was necessary for the Iranians to discredit 9/11 and what better way to do so? Conspiracy theories."

Al-Qaida also accused Iran of hypocrisy over its "anti-Americanism".

The article said: "For Iran, anti-Americanism is merely a game of politics. It is anti-America when it suits it and it is a collaborator with the US when it suits it, as we have seen in the shameful assistance Iran gave to the US in its invasion of Afghanistan and in the Shia of Iraq, backed by Iran, bringing the American forces into the country and welcoming them with open arms."

During his visit to New York, Ahmadinejad also changed his position on gay people in Iran. He had previously famously said: "We don't have homosexuals [in Iran] like you do in your country. This does not exist in our country."

But according to the American news website the Daily Beast, in a meeting with a number of journalists last week, he said: "In Iran, homosexuality is seen as an ugly act ... There may be some people who are homosexuals who are in touch with you. But in Iranian society they're ashamed to announce it so they're not known. This is an act against God and his prophets. But we as the government can't go out and stop people."

Fredrick Toben Reports

5th Palestine Felestin Intifada Conference

Teheran, Iran – 1-2 October 2011

Getting there

On 22 September 2011, the day of my leaving Australia for Iran, a Qantas baggage strike luckily did not affect my completing the first leg of my journey. I spent the night in Singapore's Changi Airport Transit Hotel where you pay for a six-hours flat rate, then per hour as required. I needed an extra hour but the fee was waived as compensation for having to endure construction noise.

Some of the daily news that I picked up in-flight in The Australian newspaper made me think about what is happening in Iran. For example, Australia's premier beer brewing enterprise, Forster's, was bought by multi-national and London-based Anglo-South African brewing giant SA Miller for $12 billion. The news item recalls how Liberal Party boss John Eliot as its head during the 1980s was going to 'Fosterise' the world.

Then from parliament there's word that Prime Minister, Julia Gillard, has commented on Foreign Minister Kevin Rudd's excessive expenditure on hotel bills of over $1000 a night while travelling around the world on Australia's behalf.

Or, Sydney Radio Station Radio 2UE, has just been served with an interim restraining order because it intended to sack announcer Michael Smith because he was about to broadcast an interview segment with former president of the Australian Workers Union, Bob Kernohan, making claims about Prime Minister Julia Gillard's former relationship with a former union official and his alleged misappropriation of union funds.

Then the small-print non-news is that thousands of Australian's are slipping ever closer to the absolute poverty line, with housing foreclosures and bankruptcies' number reaching the thousands.

The same picture can be found in the US where over 45 million people are homeless and starving – as in other countries of the world. It bothers me to see this kind of news because there is no reason for anyone in the world to starve or be without shelter. What is needed is a system that cuts out the middle-men who thrive on human misery, mainly those who embrace usury for their own benefit. I don't know if the Pirate Party that's just slipped into Berlin's local parliament can do anything about it – time will tell.

This depressing picture is not to be found in Singapore where Changi Airport alone exudes virility and capitalistic enterprise – but only if you are into the shopping, eating and enjoyment business, and of course those special massages...

Once I board the Iran Air Jumbo at Kuala Lumpur I feel reasonably safe because I must not forget that the European Arrest Warrant still awaits me, in for example, Dubai. It's almost three years ago that I almost travelled there but was pulled off the plane at Heathrow Airport before I could get there, and I spent two months at Wandsworth Prison before being released on Executive Order, much to the annoyance of the Mannheim public prosecutor who had no say in this process. Such is the blessing where criminality is tempered by political expediency.

Teheran is as usual an experience in itself.

Teheran is Iran, and I marvel at the fact that this city of close to 18 million people still functions. Traffic, as Peter Hartung would remember, is initially chaotic when, for example, a four-lane road suddenly becomes a fifth lane as a driver squeezes his car into a gap, and he has many who gladly follow him.

And to think that all houses have sanitation, meaning that the water and sewerage supply is functioning. Electricity and even the WiFi Internet connections work well. Not once since I began visiting Iran on an annual basis in 1999 did I experience an outage.

During the working week all you see in the city is a swarm of yellow taxis, buses and as many motor bikes and scooters, with a limited number of ordinary cars displaying on their windscreens a special permit needed to enter the city limits. Trucks thus do not experience too many hassles when delivering their goods. In this way Teheran has overcome serious traffic congestion problems.

I still marvel at the vitality of the Iranians and I still think it is because of their conserved energy that comes on account of their public modesty laws. In the western democracies and in Asian nations matters of morality are left to the individual, and revealing as much flesh-body as possible can be rewarding financially. No wonder so many lonely middle-aged western men spend their final days in Thailand, Kampuchea, Vietnam where poverty desperation compels women and children to service these emotionally and intellectually crippled individuals. For example, in western society a woman who craves attention opens her blouse and men start to think with what's between their legs and not with what's between their ears.

Here in Iran a woman has to use her eyes – and this means the brain is kicked into gear. All the men I meet here have only one wife because even coping with one wife is demanding. But vanity is coming into the picture as well with Iranian women sporting a bandage on the bridge of their noses, meaning that they have had a nose-job. This is sad because their distinct feature is their nose and it should not be subjected to surgery. But then in the west we have reached the ultimate point of superficial madness where women have vaginal reconstruction because the boyfriend is not happy with what he finds there. Such behaviour is an absolute indicator of a society in decline. I think it was also the case when New York legalized homosexual marriage, and some commentator remarked that such a legal act is really not that important in the overall scheme of things. We have our example in Australia where the finance minister has her partner carrying 'their' child. Such nonsense leads to India where anything goes – and the absurdity is found in having temples where rats are revered as holy beings, while 450 million Indians are vegetating below the poverty line. So much for democracy.

More distinctly visible than in the past are those 'high maintenance' ladies that seem to be the hall-mark of the western advertising industry. For some there is no hijab anymore that made Iranian women look like nuns of the 1950-60s. In its place there is the loosely-fitted headscarf that needs constant adjusted but I do feel for the women who dress full-body cover while the men are permitted to run around sleeveless. Perhaps this custom may be watered down in time, but then it is only in public that a strict dress code exists. As soon as they're at home, women do what all do – get into comfortable clothes.

IRIB – Islamic Republic of Iran Broadcasting – television news features the following running captions in English: Russian Finance Minister resigns; Spanish parliament dissolved; Iran-Sudan close ties; President further convergence with Muslim states desired; Iran-Brazil share common interests – enhance bi-lateral ties; Indonesia stresses Iran key role in Middle East; Bomb blast in Afghanistan; Bomb attack in Aden; Danish opposition to Euro soars ...and so it goes on and on. The world seems to be in a constant uproar over something.

I am sent two images that further clarify the more pressing issues bothering the so-called free and democratic west that always liberates people from ruthless dictators. They are both from Dees and most Revisionists appreciate the pictures because their message is worth more than thousands of words – and countless court cases!

Hence, the first speaks for itself, and the second picture likewise speaks for itself and I need make no further comment about what they are all about:

Jewish Jihad and World War

By Captain Eric H. May

"We are benefiting from one thing, and that is the attack on the Twin Towers and Pentagon. These events swung American public opinion in our favor." -- Ha'aretz, April 16, 2008, Report: Netanyahu says 9/11 terror attacks good for Israel

HOUSTON -- Before I am assailed by the usual screams from the usual suspects, let me point out that the fear of Jewish jihadists starting a world war is not uniquely mine. There was an op-ed by Jewish dissident Sefi Rachlevsky in Haaretz Wednesday that said the same thing:

Netanyahu must be stopped from attacking Iran

"Worry over this issue doesn't stem only from the assurance given by the prime minister's friend, Dick Cheney, that Israel will attack; or from the messianic statements about a possible attack that Haaretz has recently quoted Netanyahu and Defense Minister Ehud Barak as making in closed forums; or from former Mossad chief Meir Dagan's warning that an attack will occur in the waning days of September in response to Israel's increasing international isolation; or from heightened anxiety caused by the imminent closure of the operational window of opportunity."

Thursday there was an unannounced morning emergency drill at the huge BP refinery in the Port of Houston area, followed by a BP emergency nine hours afterward. In my Friday article, Texas City Terror Scare, Big Oil insiders, speaking on condition of anonymity, said that BP employees were afraid that they were being set up for a false flag attack, and that Israeli intelligence veterans had set up the Texas City counterterror program after 9/11.

My eight years of identifying BP, Texas City as one of the top U.S. false flag terror targets was corroborated by the Thursday publication of US Nuclear Weapons Unaccountable by Wayne Madsen. In it Madsen, like me a former military intelligence officer, identified the Port of Houston as the main conduit for Israeli smuggling of U.S. highly enriched uranium.

Finishing off the week with still more fright, on Friday Denver, the headquarters of much of the U.S. state-of-emergency command apparatus, became alarmingly active: Massive terror exercise planned for metro area.

Taken together, the events and publications cited in this article suggest that the nation may have dodged a bullet late last week, and with the reported Israeli war plans specifying the end of September as the deadline for an attack on Iran, this week will be as dangerous as the last.

My Captain - I am currently in Teheran and your clarity of perception, below, coincides with what I am seeing and noting here. The Iranians are not our enemy - far from it. They still have generational thinking and they still enjoy having a family - but global financial constraint are placing significant burdens on the individual who are carrying civilizing values on a daily basis. The nation breathes as one body and is not fractured into a multi-cultural mass as is the USA and its obsession with Israel's well-being, and this at the expense of its own well-being - note the decay of US infrastructure.

Of interest is that most politicians, certainly the Supreme Leader and the President, shy away from displaying and embracing absolute wealth - they have been known to just take a taxi and venture among the people - a walk into the mountains on the weekends - something that would not be possible to do in the USA - for when the US President and his court take off on visits it's a major SECURITY problem...no wonder Congress does not represent the people anymore.

Add to that the recent conviction of protesters who interrupted the Israeli Ambassador's address at a university, and the claim by an academic - was it a Dr Klein? - that he had developed a new academic discipline called HATE CRIMES, then we know we are sliding into oblivion - perhaps, but a tripple INSHA'ALLAH may get us out of trouble.

Keep the material coming - the big ideological divide that now afflicts the world is 9/11 and Holocaust-Shoah, both of which the Iranians recognise as the west's lie and thus downfall because it is this lie that holds the free and democratic world together.

Kind regards

Fredrick

You have secured your moral and intellectual integrity by spelling it out, and those that fight for any cause, then refuse to do what you have done, are cowards - and they usually come on board when the fighting has been done by such a one as you.

For that, my Captain, I salute you!

Interesting; thanks. As you wrote, most of the people have become cowards.. and also careless. True, Iran is not an enemy; but is presented as one because it has no love for Israel...

It's sad, that a once great country has been destroyed- at such a young age...by deception. It is not so important whether a statement is true, or not; by that the people believe it is true, and act on that belief...Unfortunately, education no longer teach one how to think—a perfect set-up for a tyrannical dictatorial take over.... Reason means to think logically, yet how many do? If the major premise is false, then the conclusion is false. If the premise is right, and the logic is faulty, the conclusion may be either true or untrue...

The administrations, under the control of Jewish influence worked secretly from the very beginning ---Benjamin Franklin tried to warn the people..The downward trend has gained great momentum since the Clinton and now the Obama "administrations." The first act Obama did ...ignoring Congress and administration staff...was to hire 45 "Czars" as his advisors. Wonder how many remember that... (Ever see a picture of him caught off guard....the devil could not look as evil.)

Five of the eight GOP candidates in the debate last week for the Presidential nomination have claimed their allegiance to Israel!!!! Ron Paul received the strongest and longest ovations for his remarks, yet the media placed his performance at 10%.

implanted in his upper left arm, will postpone the 11-year-old developing broad shoulders, deep voice and facial hair.

The couple faced intense criticism from friends and family as a result, Ms Moreno told MailOnline. 'Everybody was angry with us. "How could you be doing this? You might be ruining his whole life!" Citing a statistic from the Youth Suicide Prevention Program, Ms Moreno noted over 50 per cent of transgender youth will have had at least one suicide attempt by their 20th birthday.

Here is Tammy with her mothers and older brother Edgar at his recent bar mitzvah. Mother Pauline said Tammy was shy and unhappy as a boy when compared to her older, outgoing brothers

And ignoring their son's incessant pleas, she said, simply was not worth the risk. 'What is so frightening to me is that you would be willing to say "no" just because you don't like it - even though your child could lose their life?'

Her son's adolescent transition, she hopes, will help him have a less conflicted adulthood. 'The whole idea now is let's stop creating a third (gender) that is neither one thing or the other, so we transitioned her,' said Ms Moreno. 'The protocol now is to transition these children as soon as you can make a diagnosis, because otherwise they end up being not one thing or the other... because they experienced puberty.'

HOW HORMONE BLOCKING WORKS:

Tammy Lobel's hormones are being blocked by an implant on the inside of the 11-year-old's upper left arm, which must be replaced once a year.

Ms Moreno explained: 'In other words, she will stay as a pre-pubescent boy until she decides and we feel that she can make this decision about surgery.' His parents say the hormone treatment will give him time to figure out if he wants to fully transition to being female or go through puberty as a boy. By age 14 or 15 the device will need to be removed so that Tammy can go through puberty, Ms Moreno said. If he chooses to stop taking the drugs, he will undergo natural male puberty at a later stage and his future fertility would not be impacted.

Should their son decide to transition to an adult female, he can take female hormones as well, which would raise his voice, allow him to grow breasts and develop other feminine physical characteristics. Ms Moreno recalled the first step of Thomas' transition to becoming female by letting him pick his own clothes. He favoured headbands to baseball hats and picked out bras and dresses to start wearing when given choice in clothing to wear. And the change in his personality, Ms Moreno says, was instant.

'He was in his own world just completely detached and that was a problem we always had was getting Thomas to participate in life,' she said. 'What we saw emerge when Tammy was allowed to be Tammy is, "Whoa!"... It was an immediate transformation. She was so giggly and she was now interacting she was now making it a point to defend herself.'

The diagnosis has been hard to accept for Tammy's parents.

The couple were married in 1990 by a rabbi and have two older sons and grandchildren. But they insist their sexuality has nothing to do with it.

'It was odd to us,' she said. 'Even though she has lesbians as parents, this is all new to us in every possible way. We know what it's like to feel different - we've got that one. But to feel like you're not in the right body was just something we could not put our heads around.'

Fortunately, the family has a vast support system. The couple credits Tammy's teachers and officials at Children's Learning Center in Alameda, California, and their religious community, for being open-minded about their son's decision.

'We live in the Bay area where lots of alternative lifestyles are in place... and we belong to a religious community that was incredibly supportive. They make it a point when we're in synagogue to come over and tell Tammy, "Oh, you look so pretty today,' Ms Moreno said, adding, 'There's never going to be enough gratitude for them.'

His parents say the hormone treatment will give him time to figure out if he wants to fully transition to being female or go through puberty as a boy. If he chooses to stop taking the drugs, he will undergo natural male puberty at a later stage and his future fertility would not be impacted.

Unhappy: Tammy was adopted aged two by Debra Lobel and Pauline Moreno

Pauline and Debra have been married since 1990, when they were joined in a commitment ceremony by their rabbi. Should their son decide to transition to an adult female, he can take female hormones as well, which would raise his voice, allow him to grow breasts and develop other feminine physical characteristics.

San Francisco, right by Berkeley, is one of four cities in the United States with a hospital that has a program for transgender children.

The University of California San Francisco is home to the Center of Excellence for Transgender Health. Children are seen at length by mental health professionals and then treated by pediatric endocrinologists. Others cities with youth programs are Boston, Seattle and Los Angeles.

The Hon Senator Eric Abetz

The Leader of the opposition in Senate

Highbury House

136 Davey Street,

Hobart, Tasmania 7000

In the name of GOD the compassionate and merciful.

Re: Australian Muslims called on to protect Iranian Pastor

Dear Senator,

I refer to an article that appeared in the International News Magazine titled "Australian Muslims called on to protect Iranian Pastor" and make the following comments.

As an Iranian Australian who has lived in Australia for 36 years I am rather disappointed about the manner you have called for an uprising of Muslims in Australia against the Iranian Government before you get all your facts right for the following reasons.

Unlike Australia the minority religions in Iran do have representatives as members of Parliament, as a matter of fact Christians in Iran have three representatives from different parts of it, they are namely Messrs Yonatan Betkolia, Robert Biglarian and Gevork Vartan. Firstly did you ever contact any one of them before you run with your request in media? Secondly, I am sure you are aware that the Islamic Republic of Iran has an embassy in Canberra, did you ever contact the Hon Ambassador representing IRI for clarification on this matter? If you did, what was his Hon's Reply?

In your article you are saying "Reports that Iranian Christian Pastor Youcef Nadarkhani is facing the death penalty are most disturbing". Please explain the source of your reports? I have also read many unconfirmed Reports that Pastor Naderkhani has been charged on sexual abuse and embezzlement however I can't confirm or deny the reports until I get my facts right. How do you know that Mr. Naderkhani is not hiding behind Christianity in order to justify his sexual desires like many reports we read about different Pastors who have been convicted in Australia on charges of sexual abuse and other similar charges?

Please let me say for the record that I am personally totally against capital punishments in any country however I believe the Laws are different in each country and one should respect the Sovereignty of all nations and do not interfere in internal affairs of other countries. this is exactly what Kevin 007 is doing and I condemn him for his actions, he should get his own house into order then spend his time on other countries.

I have no reasons to doubt your sincere concerns about the abuse of Human Rights, if that's the case and you truly stand up for it please read the attachment of this e-mail as It explains as how a group of powerful criminal cartel destroyed my business and livelihood while while my cries for help fell on deaf ears, they included my very own member of parliament for the seat of Bennelong The Hon John Howard.

For the past 12 years I have begged Mr. Howard and Ms. Maxine McKew to assist me to hold back the attacks on my business and my family by a criminal Sydney Cartel but none of them ever bothered to do so. I can understand the inaction by Maxine who belongs to a party of deceit and fraud therefore she did not wish to expose the involvement of members of her party, however I am very disappointed about The Hon Howard as he totally failed me.

I truly believe the following reasons were justification of his inaction and I would be more than happy to give him a chance to defend these allegations, his honor may be regarded as the second best prime Minister this country has ever had however as far as I am concerned he failed to stand up and protect his constituent from savage attack of a known criminal cartel. As a matter of fact I have my doubts whether Mr. Howard or other members of parliament that I have approached in the past truly exercise their Christianity as they preach.

This gives me the idea to compile a verse from the Bible:

"Be a voice of Voiceless "Speak up for those unable to speak for themselves, for the rights of all who are left desolate and defenceless." -Proverbs 31:8

Not only Mr. Howard failed in his duty to protect his citizen as well as his constituent he was also a bad example a true Christian. When one speaks about social justice it should go to the heart of Christianity, unfortunately it was not the case with Mr. Howard. Here are some of the reasons

1. The Hon John Howard and Marcus Einfeld were classmates and when John Howard was deaf in one ear at University of Sydney he could not take notes therefore Marcus Einfeld took notes for him therefore John did not want to annoy his former classmate.

2. The John Howard was a lawyer and did not wish to ruin the reputation of the legal entity and the corrupt justice System in the Federal court of Australia.

3. Rodney Adler through his FAI insurance company had donated thousands of dollars to the Liberal Party of Australia therefore John Howard did not wish to upset the Party machine.

4. Malcolm Turnbull was a co-director and shareholder of Allcorp Cleaning Pty Ltd in partnership with the former labour

NSW Labor Premier Neville Wran which corruptly received a cleaning contract at Darling Harbour Shopping centre in return for giving away 3 x 99 year leases of public lands for a nominated $1 to 3 of 100 deregistered companies of the Hayson Group of companies called Darling Harbourside (Sydney) Pty Ltd and Merlin International which subsequently went into liquidation in the hands of Arthur Andersen the crooked accounting firm.

5. The Hon John Howard after visiting New York developed a "Hatred" for Islam and considering my background which goes back to Iran he did not wish to assist me perhaps justifying his unsavoury action.

6. Harry Triguboff the owner of Meriton Apartments who illegally, fraudulently and corruptly repossessed two of my apartments in the city had donated thousands of dollars to the Liberal Party and John Howard did wish to upset his cartel friend.

I am sure there are many other unknown reasons for his inaction which as the years go by I am discovering new evidences as the motives.

Now Dear Senator, this is your chance to practice what you preach and if you truly value Christianity and human rights let's first do it at home and then worry about Iran and other parts of the world. You help me to an inquiry into my case then I will write to the Iranian President and ask him for merci and justice as you have asked us to do.

Sincerely Yours

Dear Dr. Toben,

Christian greetings in the precious Name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

My Church has been following the case of Pastor Youcef Nadarkhani since at least 2010. He is associated in the same ministry, and incarcerated in addition to perhaps as many as ten members of his congregation and several other ministers, while I believe two more ministers have gone into exile in Turkey to avoid incarceration.

Throughout this period we have communicated with Mrs. Bronyn Bishop MP, Mr. Tony Windsor MP, and Mr. Samuel Allen of DFAT whom we keep apprised of the situation as we know it through emails circulated to subscribers to our free weekly Church Newsletter. Mr. Kevin Rudd MP is also aware of the matter.

I along with numbers of our subscribers and Brethren from our sister Churches throughout the world have written letters and sent emails to His Excellency the Supreme Leader of Iran, President Ahmadinejad and various ministers in their Administration, in addition to becoming signatories to petitions established by different overseas Christian organizations.

Personally I have yet to receive a response to my many letters and emails although I have twice asked to be granted a personal meeting with Mr. Ahmadinejad to discuss this matter. Neither did I receive a response when I wrote to the Iranian Embassy in Canberra. Considering the privileges the Islamic community in Australia have received merely by their presence I agree with Mr. Eric Abetz MP it is reasonable to ask them to reciprocate by "lobbying the Iranian regime to release Pastor Nadarkhani as this extreme religious intolerance has no place in this day and age".

I do not believe Brother Nadarkhani will be executed, however in the interests of Iran's public relations (to say nothing of the situation of the victims of this injustice), this matter needs to be resolved in a face-saving way and irresponsible local officials restrained from such actions, contrary both to the Constitution of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Koran.

I am not acquainted with Mr. F. Moshfeghi-Nejad however I have transcripts of the decisions of the provincial court in Gilan Province in 2010 which convicted our Brother of apostasy, while in a letter of December 5, 2010 and a subpoena of June 12, 2011 the Supreme Court in Qom set forth these points and ordered Gilan provincial court to investigate their veracity. According to Brother Nadarkhani's attorney, Mr. Mohammad Ali Dadkhah, Gilan provincial court will deliver their written verdict this week.

Mr. F. Moshfeghi-Nejad has obviously never met a Christian, we are very, VERY few; he knows nothing of the faith and after 36 years in out of Iran he would not know how or where to locate a Christian Church in Australia or for that matter, anywhere in the world. His "many unconfirmed Reports that Pastor Nadakharni has been charged on sexual abuse and embezzlement however I can't confirm or deny the reports until I get my facts right "are outrageous humbug with no basis in fact and reflect poorly on his character.

Does he also suggest this sampling of victims are sexual deviants and embezzlers?

Behrouz Sadegh-Khandjani, Firouz Sadegh-Khanjani, Mehdi Furutan, Mohammad Beliad, Parviz Khalaj, Sister Nazly Beliad, Pastor Abdol Reza Ali Haghnejad, His wife, Sister Anahita Khademi, Pastor Matthias Haghnejad, Babak Booshehri, Pastor Behnam Irani, Amin Afshar Manesh, Sister Nazli Makarian, Mahmoud Khosh-Hal, His wife, Sister Hava Saadetmend, Amir Goldoust, His sister, Sister Mina Goldoust, Their grandmother, Sister Zainab Bahremend, Fatemah Modir-Nouri, Mehrdad Habibzade, Milad Radeh, Behzad Taalipasand.

Mr. F. Moshfeghi-Nejad could have readily obtained the fatwa of the Supreme Leader, His Excellency Ayatollah Khamenei and a great deal of official information from the Internet, decisions of the Supreme Court of Iran, details of charges and laws used and abused by the courts in Iran, the history of massacres of Christians, Ba'hai and other minorities within the Iranian prison system in the not too distant past, statements by the White House, government and non-government agencies, newspaper, television and website reports, and so on without slandering genuine Christians with figments from his own imagination.

I have a high regard for the integrity and courage of Mr. Ahmadinejad. On these qualities he is more than a politician, he is an outstanding statesman misrepresented by cowardly, treacherous politicians from the apostate (once) Christian world serving the invisible world government in its dual aspects of Finance and Communism against their own nations. Warmongers you would not wish to invite into your home.

Australians and the Australian Parliament should be standing on the Absolute of God's unchanging Word, dealing honestly with Iran against the corruption of our alien-controlled so-called "Allies" -- hell-bent on provoking Iran and innocent Islamic nations to a war of self-preservation as they did Germany, Japan, Vietnam, the Koreans, Serbia, and as they have betrayed Iraq, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Tunisia, Egypt and Libya, with Syria and Lebanon coming up. It is a pity the men and women in our parliaments lack the backbone and truthful forthrightness of Mr. Ahmadinejad. So bound are they juggling the BIG LIES of false history, science, banking and religion, they are betraying their own kith and kin to justify ever more scientifically impossible lies such as "9/11," "7/7," "climate change," "same sex marriage," and the two besetting sins of the end-time absolutely accursed by the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob: "Homosexuality" (Luke 17:28-30; Genesis 18), and "multiculturalism"

(Matthew 24:37; Genesis 6:1-4) which is a euphemism for miscegenation that is genocide to Adam's race and a repetition of the original sin on a global scale. Despite their disinterested unbelief our Parliamentarians are fulfilling Scripture and will yet drive Iran to fulfill Scripture. Russia, too.

There is not a single soul in any of our parliaments with the audacity and commonsense to quit the prejudicial UN Refugee Agreement and restore Australia's selective immigration laws which once made us the envy of the rest of the world. Instead of spending the taxes of citizens and credits borrowed at usury to settle uninvited, unwanted, unassimilable into the country: refugees created by the invisible world government in its dual aspects of Finance and Communism as it steals the natural resources of their homelands or exchanged unsupported fiat money for utilities and other hard assets before collapsing the world and national economies into a depression far worse than the Great Depression. Also prophesied.

Yours sincerely in the love and service of our Lord Jesus Christ. Your brother-in-Christ, Anthony Grigor-Scott
